Today's Features

5 Jim Riggs

Clemson's senior tight end was a first-team strength All-American in 1985. He hopes to become Clemson's first double All-American (Strength All-American and overall All-American) since Jeff Davis. Karen Blackman profiles the older of the Riggs brothers.

7 Alabama Alumni

Both teams will be coached by disciples of Bear Bryant when Clemson meets Duke in Death Valley today. Jill Mixon talked independently with both Steve Sloan and Danny Ford as they reflect on lessons learned in Tuscaloosa in the mid-sixties.

52 Strength Training

Clemson might have the largest (8,000 square feet) weight room in the nation. It also might be the best environment in the nation, as Sam Blackman explains.

55 Tiger Baseball

Even though he signs an unorthodox lineup card, Bill Wilhelm's Clemson baseball team should have another excellent season in 1987. The ACC tournament will finally come to Greenville, something that has the home team excited. Tim Bourret examines Clemson's chances for an ACC title.

64 Clemson Hoops

Basketball practice started earlier this week and most prognosticators (including Sports Illustrated) think Clemson can have a top 25 season. Tim Bourret takes a look at the NCAA potential for Cliff Ellis' third Clemson team.

77 University Feature

While the nation celebrated the Statue of Liberty's rebirth this past summer, Clemson is holding its own celebration this week. Margaret Lamb tells us about the activities and a special halftime exhibition today.

81 Computers

The use of computers has reached the Clemson athletic department. Everyone from the SID office to Danny Ford to the equipment room is benefiting. Kassie Kessinger surveyed the Jervey Athletic Center and reviews some of its uses.

114 Clemson Traditions

Clemson might lead the nation in unique traditions. How many college teams can match Clemson's entrance? Who else has a mystical rock? And, the Tiger Paw started here. David Webb examines quite a list of Clemson traditions.

116 The Last Word

Almost half a century ago college teams used to play each other in the spring. The games did not count in the standings, but you couldn't tell by the players' intensity. Bob Bradley takes us back to some Clemson-Duke games you won't read about in either team's press guide.

TODAY'S GAME

by Tim Bourret

Trends to Continue

Clemson has averaged almost 304 yards a game on the ground so far this season, the fifth best figure in the nation. If contemporary trends of the Duke-Clemson series continue, the Tigers should not drop in the standings this week. Clemson is known as a running team and the Blue Devils as a passing team and the series between the two teams typifies these views.

Since Danny Ford has been the coach at Clemson (1979), the Tigers have gained 2174 yards rushing against Duke in 397 attempts. In other words Clemson has averaged 310.6 yards a game on the ground in 56.7 attempts under Ford against Duke. The Blue Devils on the other hand have averaged 22 pass completions in 37 attempts for 262 yards per game.

The 1983 contest was a true documentation of the varying views of the two coaches who learned under the same man. Even though Ford and Steve Sloan are Bear Bryant proteges (see story on page 7), they have offensive philosophy differences that could not be solved at any summit in Iceland. Duke quarterback Ben Bennett hit 34 of 53 passes for 367 yards, while Clemson gained 383 yards in 60 rushes in a 38-31 Clemson win that came down to the wire.

You should see more of the same this afternoon. We have already recited Clemson's rushing excellence this year, but Duke is just about as proficient in the passing game. Steve Slayden is the top rated quarterback in the ACC with a 63.3 completion percentage on 81-128 passes for 911 yards. Duke has almost double the passing yardage of the Tigers, while Clemson has more than doubled Duke's rushing real estate.

yard game against Fordham in 1952 are higher.

King was a replacement at tailback for an injured teammate for that Fordham game in the early fifties. Coach Frank Howard thought King, a freshman reserve quarterback, would be a good replacement at tailback for injured starter Billy Hair. He was quite a replacement as he gained 234 yards to help Clemson to a 12-12 tie in New York against a then powerful (remember the Seven Blocks of Granite played for Fordham) Ram team.

Notes of Interest

Clemson will try to stretch its Homecoming unbeaten streak to 16 against the only team to blemish the record.

Flagler Flows

Clemson tailback Terrence Flagler had a day to force all kinds of type-setting changes in the Tiger record book for next season. The red-shirt senior from Fernandina Beach, FL had 30 carries for 210 yards in leading Clemson to the 31-17 win at Virginia. Not only was it Flagler's career high, it was the third best single game rushing performance in Clemson history. Only Cliff Austin's 260-yard day against Duke in 1982 and Don King's unusual 234-

The next week Hair was healthy and back in the lineup. King returned to quarterback and was the starter at that position the rest of his career (1952-55). So, Don King started one game at tailback, gained 234 yards in the game, and never played the position again.

Flagler Hunts Records

If Terrence Flagler gains 136 yards on the ground against Duke he will establish three new Clemson records. Flagler has gained 387 yards in the last two weeks, already the Clemson record for back-to-back games in a season and he needs just 93 yards to break Cliff Austin's record for yards rushing in a three-game series. Austin had 479 yards against Duke, N. C. State and Virginia in 1982 and he currently holds the mark for a four-game and a five-game series (595 and 689). Flagler has 464 in the last three games and 554 over the last four games. He has vaulted all the way from 28th to 16th on Clemson's all-time rushing list in the last two weeks.

Flowers Needs 28 Yards

In a few years NFL fans may be saying in disbelief, "You mean Flowers and Flagler both played at Clemson at the same time?" While Flagler is becoming a favorite of the NFL scouts, Flowers has always been a strong contender for first-round selection. And, he has the numbers to back it up.

Heading into today's game Flowers has 2544 career rushing yards, second on Clemson's all-time list. He needs just 28 yards to become Clemson's all-time rushing leader. Buddy Gore had 2571 in his three-year career. Based on his past performances against Duke he could do that in the first quarter. Flowers is the only player in Clemson history to gain over 100 yards against an opponent three times in a career. The team he has done it against ... the Duke Blue Devils. Flowers has 44 carries for 352 yards (8.0 per carry) over his career against Duke. The Clemson record for most yards rushing in a career against one team is 444 yards in 47 carries by Cliff Austin against ... Duke.

By the way if you want to check a roster

John Phillips is a major reason Clemson had a 44-game best 385 yards rushing last week.

for running backs, check Clemson's 1982 backfield contingent of Flowers, Flagler, Steve Griffin, Kevin Mack (Cleveland Browns), Cliff Austin (Atlanta Falcons) and Chuck McSwain (Winnipeg Jets). Just think if Herschel Walker had signed with the Tigers.

Homecoming Success

Since 1970 Clemson has a 14-0-1 record on homecoming. The only blemish was an 18-18 tie with Duke in 1976. That might go down as one of the strangest finishes in Clemson history. Vince Fusco booted his sixth field goal of the game from 57 yards to tie the game as the clock ran out. To add to the drama the ball hit the crossbar and then bounced over.

Clemson last played Duke at homecoming in 1984 and the Tigers came away with a 54-21 victory. Clemson has a 3-0-1 record against Duke on homecoming and the Tigers are 43-15-2 overall since homecoming was invented at Clemson in 1922. Clemson last suffered defeat on homecoming in 1970 when Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan led Auburn to a 44-0 win over the Tigers.

Phillips Outstanding

Clemson has a stretch of 13 consecutive games going in which it has gained at least 200 yards rushing. John Phillips first entered the Clemson starting lineup at offensive guard 13 games ago. This is not a coincidence.

The Tiger All-America candidate is a junior from North Carolina who has gone from the youngster to the leader in one season. Against Virginia last week he had 16 knockdown blocks to set a new record for a Clemson offensive lineman (based on coach's film evaluation). Phillips received an 86 percent grade for his work and has been over 90 percent twice this season.

Phillips is the old hand of the youngest Clemson interior offensive line in 41 years. That stat has got to make Danny Ford happy as his sophomore dominated line has jelled a year or two early. A look at the all-time starting lineups tells us that you have to go back to the 1945 Clemson team to find a team that had fewer than 11 years of collective experience (four sophomores and a junior). The 1945 team had 10 years of collective experience, while the 1943 team started all freshmen on the interior because of commitments to Uncle Sam's expansion league in Germany.

Junkin Leads Duke

When Clemson has the ball watch Duke linebacker Mike Junkin. Number 48 is the best linebacker and perhaps the best defensive player who will oppose Clemson in Death Valley this year. Through five games he had made 85 tackles, nearly double anyone else on the Duke team and more than double the total any of the Tigers have this season.

Junkin had an incredible 25 tackles in Duke's opening game win at Northwestern. He was a Sporting News preseason All-American this year and likely will make a lot of teams after the season is over. He has had at least 10 tackles in 15 straight games. The Belvidere, IL native had 162 tackles last year despite having limited practice time due to a knee injury. In fact, he didn't even practice the last two months because of the injury; he just showed up for the games.

Steve Slayden is the leader of the Duke offense. The talented quarterback who was the number-two rated high school golfer in Georgia in 1982, led the ACC in completion percentage as a sophomore (58.8). He threw for 1937 yards last season and only Leo Hart and Ben Bennett had high totals for a season. His favorite target is senior Doug Green, who had 51 catches last season. He has 21 receptions for 300 yards so far this season. Clemson's entire roster of wide receivers collectively have the same number of receptions for only 16 more yards.

Treadwell Streak

Clemson placekicker David Treadwell, who won the Georgia game with a dramatic 46-yard field goal this year (see posters on sale this weekend), has converted 13 of his last 14 field goal attempts. Ironically, his only miss over the last eight games took place at Georgia. He missed a 39-yarder in his first attempt of the season at Georgia, but has made five straight since. He made his final eight attempts of the 1985 season to finish 17-24. Treadwell is already fifth in Clemson history in total field goals in a career with 22.

Roulhac Ranked First

Clemson wide receiver Terrance Roulhac is currently first in the nation in kickoff returns with a 38.0 average. He has had four returns of 40 yards or more, including an 81-yard return at Georgia Tech, the longest return of its kind by a Clemson player since 1962.

Sooner or later the Tigers will break a kickoff return for a touchdown. Clemson has not brought one back for a score since Hal Davis ran one back 98 yards against Georgia in 1962. Since then, there have been 807 straight Clemson kickoff returns without a score.

The Clemson team is also ranked first in the nation in kickoff returns with a 30.8 average. The Tigers are also fifth in rushing offense and 16th in rushing defense. Clemson has held opponents to just 13.6 points per game, the ninth best figure in the NCAA.

Feel the Spirit

Legendary sportswriter Grantland Rice once wrote this statement about champions:

"You wonder how they do it and you look to see the knack, you watch the foot in action, or the shoulder, or the back, but when you spot the answer where the higher glimmers lurk, you'll find in moving higher up the laurel covered spire, that the most of it is practice and the rest of it is work."

Strength All-American

Jim Riggs was a Strength All-American last year; he could pull off a double this year.

Clemson senior tight end Jim Riggs is a perfect illustration of this quote as he has shown himself to be a team oriented, unselfish and dedicated worker for the Tigers during his five years at Clemson. His efforts have not gone unnoticed, however, as he is recognized as one of the premier tight ends in the country.

"Jim Riggs will probably be the first tight end drafted next spring," said the Atlanta Falcons Tom Bratz at a recent Anderson Touchdown Club meeting. "He has the size, hands and runs a 4.6 in the 40. That is what we are looking for."

This senior leader attributes a lot of his success to hard work and the other 10 players on the field. "You can't go one against eleven and win football games. Great athletes who have made names for themselves couldn't have done it without the help they received from their teammates. Everything I accomplish couldn't be achieved without help from my teammates or my coaches."

The success he refers to is being named to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference football team last season. "It was a great feeling to be named all-conference, as there were a lot of good tight ends last season. Coach (Woody) McCorvey emphasized to me last year to work harder and good things would happen. That has been my philosophy the last couple of years, to work to my maximum."

Another award that was bestowed upon Riggs last year was his selection to the All-American Strength Team. "The weight room is probably my second love next to football. I spend a good part of my spare time lifting weights. Coach Wade (strength coach) has done an excellent job by establishing a new atmosphere in the weight room and by obtaining new weights for the athletes," Riggs added. "Weight training has increased my speed and size as I now run a 4.6 in the 40-yard dash instead of a 4.7. When you start obtaining results like that, it makes you want to continue to work harder."

"Jim has done a tremendous job not only for himself but has also served as a leader for our younger players," says Wade. "He is truly dedicated and the type of guy that works overtime to achieve success. Jim put on 20 solid pounds during the last off-season and he is probably one of the strongest tight ends in America. He can bench press 375 pounds, can leg sled 875 pounds and power cleans 334 pounds. His data is tremendous."

His weight training has better prepared him for the rigors of his role with the football team. "The role of the tight end at Clemson is more of a blocker than pass catcher. I like catching the ball, but I like blocking for Kenny Flowers, Terrence Flagler, and the other backfield members. As long as we are gaining yardage on the ground, I really don't mind if I don't catch the ball."

His current tight end coach, Wayne Bolt, says, "He improves every week. Not only is he a hard worker, but he gives good leadership to the team and he is great in catching the ball in crucial situations." In the first four games he had caught every pass thrown his way, two with one hand and every one resulted in a first down.

Jim is not the only Riggs member to contribute in crucial situations this year, as younger brother Matt is a sophomore strong safety. "It has been good for us to be teammates and I'm glad Matt decided to come to Clemson. We have a little rivalry going as he tries to put 'licks' on me and I try to get him back in practice. By the end of the season, the hits equal out."

by Karen Blackman

Jim attributes a lot of the Riggs brothers' success to their parents. "We have always been told not to play if we weren't happy playing, and not to keep playing just because we felt that they wanted us to. They are very supportive of us."

The influence of their parents is also brought out in their attitudes towards self-discipline. Riggs was selected this summer to appear in a public service television announcement for the NCAA urging young people to avoid drugs. He also spoke at an anti-drug meeting in Rocky Mount, NC, where his parents now live. "There were 6500 students at the meeting ranging in age from eight to 15 and we encouraged them to 'just say no' when offered drugs. It is important to reach students when they are young to warn them of the dangers of drugs."

All professional teams are looking at more than just a player's statistics when it comes to rating his pro potential. With the increase in drug awareness the pros have to take a look at the entire package. Jim Riggs has the entire package and then some.

Jim Riggs should be the first tight end taken in the next college draft.

CLEMSON TIGERS

The similarities are many. They both were born south of the Mason-Dixon line. They both graduated from the University of Alabama and played and coached football under the legendary Paul "Bear" Bryant. Both were named to the All-Southeastern Conference football team and were academic All-SEC selections. And, today they are in the same profession.

Bryant Disciples

Both of today's coaches learned the game from Bear Bryant.

Okay, here's your big hint. During their first year as head coaches, both were the youngest head coaches in America. Of course you have it figured out by now.

If you look closely along both sidelines, you'll see to whom I am referring. Duke head coach Steve Sloan is now in his fourth year at the helm of the Blue Devils, while on the opposite side of the field you'll find eighth year head Tiger coach Danny Ford.

Even though Sloan now wears blue and white of Duke and Ford is clad in his Clemson Tiger orange, you can tell the two still share a bond. The bond is "Bear Bryant."

"Coach Bryant emphasized the kicking game, defense and the running game to us," admitted Sloan. "Danny's teams have been able to utilize the running game to their advantage over the years because of their outstanding personnel. They have had big linemen, good blockers and fast backs. We on the other hand have not had that luxury. We've had to mix the pass and the run."

Ford agrees that the philosophies Bryant taught them a little over 20 years ago are still the same, but they have been modified to suit the personnel of the teams. "I guess Steve had a lot more involvement in the passing game, because of the places he had been. After playing at Alabama he went on to professional football with the Atlanta Falcons and learned a great deal about the passing game. I wasn't afforded that opportunity."

Ford continued, "My second year as a graduate assistant at Alabama Coach Bryant implemented the wishbone and my next three years there, we really emphasized that. I then went to Virginia Tech for three years where we again ran the wishbone. When I came to Clemson as an assistant we ran the 'I.' So, my exposure to the throwing game has been very limited. I do know that we want the proper balance between the two."

Today's game isn't meant just to be a matchup between Clemson's running game and Duke's passing attack. It is also a confrontation between a former coach and former player.

See if you can picture the practice field at the University of Alabama in 1969. "Okay, Ford, you've got to stay low to the ground, keep your hands out in front of you and by all means protect that quarterback," shouted the second-year offensive backfield coach Sloan.

Sloan recalled, "Danny came to Alabama as an end and played at that position for two years. Then as a senior we moved him to quick tackle. He did a good job too. I remember one game in particular in the Liberty Bowl against Colorado. They had a great defensive end, and we told Danny it was his job to keep that end away from our quarterback. We lost the game 47-33, but we did score 33 points. He did a great job pass protecting."

It is also evident that Bryant influenced the vernacular of the two head coaches. One of Ford's frequent expressions is, "We are really happy that a lot of our players' 'mamma and daddies' were able to come see their sons play." Sloan often comments on what an important role the players' parents' have. It is obvious that Bryant believed in the importance of families.

"Coach Bryant was always talking about the importance of one's parents," said Sloan. "He was always talking about the bloodlines of certain individuals. I think he picked it up when he was at Kentucky with all those thoroughbred horses up there. He always said some horses could run faster than others because of their bloodlines, and it was the same with football players."

As much as I'm sure both Sloan and Ford would like to see the Crimson Tide defeat Tennessee this afternoon, I know their only concerns are how their respective teams will perform on Frank Howard (there's another Alabama man) field. Somebody's got to win and somebody's got to lose. Since coaching at Clemson, Ford has never lost to Sloan in four tries. But as Ford stated, "It's not me against him. It's Clemson vs. Duke. The players determine the outcome."

It is an unusual circumstance to view a college football game guided by coaches with so many common denominators, and common bonds. But, for 60 minutes of football action on Saturday that will go out the window. Somewhere Bear Bryant will be smiling.

Both Danny Ford and Steve Sloan were All-SEC players at Alabama in the sixties.

Clemson President MAX LENNON

Max Lennon, former vice president for agricultural administration at Ohio State University, became President of Clemson University on October 14, 1985. The University board of trustees announced the unanimous decision at a board meeting at Clemson on that day.

Dr. Lennon is a native of Columbus County, NC and earned his bachelor's degree in animal science from N. C. State in 1962. He also earned a doctorate in animal science from the same institution in 1970.

He had been at Ohio State for two years where he had also served as executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon, who has also served as an assistant professor at Texas Tech and an associate and full professor at Texas Tech and Missouri, spent two years with the international agri-business firm Central Soya of Illinois. He also has participated in many national and international conferences concerning new technologies in agriculture.

The 45-year-old Lennon was chosen from about 200 candidates for the presidency at Clemson. "You have the unwavering support of the entire Board of Trustees to carry out your duties as President of this university," said Louis Batson, chairman of the board of trustees. "We will stick to our role as maker of policy and we want you to carry out our policies without any interference from us."

Lennon commented on his philosophies and goals for Clemson in his opening press conference. "I am extremely delighted to be chosen as the leader of this great institution. We're at an extremely important time in our lives, not because of circumstances but because of where we are in history. We need land-grant institutions in a way that is almost unique . . . so we can continue to be competitive in a world market.

"We at Clemson University must make our own priorities to lead us into the 21st century. We must begin by making ourselves visible in the state, then we must focus on the global perspective of the university and what we can accomplish in that arena."

Batson declared that the long selection process had discovered a man who knows what he wants. "Max Lennon is a good planner, a deep thinker, and a man ready for the challenge. He is restless without being impatient."

Lennon said the early part of his administration will consist of familiarizing himself more closely with Clemson's programs. "It would be presumptuous of me to come in here with a set of priorities," he said. "In the academic community you build on the strengths of the institution, and my first business will be learning about those strengths. I'll be calling for help from the students, faculty, administrators, alumni and the rest of the Clemson family to make sure our priorities are in order."

Lennon began his teaching career at N. C. State in 1966 when he served as a graduate assistant professor. In 1970 he moved to Lubbock, TX, where he served as an assistant professor of animal science at Texas Tech University. He remained at the Texas institution as an assistant dean and associate dean in the College of Agriculture until 1980. On the first day of this decade he became the chairperson in the department of animal husbandry at the University of Missouri. He served as Dean of the College of Agriculture at Missouri until 1983, when he moved to Ohio State as vice president for Agricultural Administration.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel (23) and Robin (21).

Max Lennon is in his first full academic year as Clemson president.

Athletic Director

BOBBY ROBINSON

A total sports program. That's the goal of the Clemson University Athletic Department, and under the leadership of Athletic Director Bobby Robinson, Clemson is headed solidly in that direction.

The road to the athletic director's position has been a steady, successful progression through athletic and administrative opportunities for Robinson. He was born in Columbia and attended A. C. Flora High School. During his high school career, he was a point guard for the basketball team and a third baseman in baseball. He also played golf competitively, and was a scratch golfer at one time. Robinson did not play any high school sports as a senior because of a heat stroke suffered in the summer of 1963. He graduated from A. C. Flora in 1964 and then enrolled in Furman University.

Robinson graduated from Furman with a B.S. degree in business and political science in 1968. He was president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chapter at Furman. After he was graduated from Furman, Robinson worked in his family's laundry and dry-cleaning business for two years.

Robinson came to Clemson in 1970, not in athletics, but in the housing office. After three years, he moved across campus to serve as an administrative assistant in the athletic department. "I started at Clemson in the housing office, but I came to Clemson with the intention of working in athletics," said Robinson. "No opening existed at the time, so I had to wait until there was one."

After serving the athletic department in various capacities, he became business manager in 1975. Two years later he was named assistant athletic director and in 1980 he became associate AD. He held that title four years, but his area of responsibility was primarily football and basketball.

While serving his administrative duties, Robinson found time to coach the Clemson golf team between 1975 and 1983. During his time as the head coach, Clemson won its only ACC title in golf and three times the Tigers participated in the NCAA tournament. In 1983, his final season as the head coach, he guided Clemson to a number-five national finish. Clarence Rose was one of three All-Americans to play for the Tigers during his tenure and is now a successful member of the pro tour.

Thus, it is easy to see why Bobby Robinson is most qualified for the position of athletic director at Clemson University — he has done it all. He has been an administrator at all levels, he has worked in other areas in the University, he has been a head coach, and he has handled the budgetary aspects needed to run a $12 million program.

Bobby Robinson's philosophy of athletics is very simple. "We want to be the very best — in competition, in academics, in facilities. We have made the commitment to provide our coaches and athletes the tools necessary to compete on the conference and national level."

In competition, Robinson led the Tigers to one of their best years ever. Football and men's basketball were involved in post-season play and no less than 10 teams participated in NCAA post-season competition. Seven of these teams were ranked in the top 20 in the country. In the Knoxville Journal's All-Sports Poll Clemson ranked 18th in women's sports and 22nd in men's sports, Clemson's first top 25 rating in both areas in the same year.

In academics, Clemson student-athletes had an outstanding year. Over 90 athletes had 3.0 or better grade point ratios either semester, with the football team having five players named to the Academic All-Conference Team, the most in the ACC.

In the area of facilities, Robinson continues his philosophy. Recent renovations have included the Strength Training Center, one of the finest in the country; Tiger Field, home of the Clemson Tiger baseball team; and the West End Zone locker room complex in Memorial Stadium. New facilities now underway include a new activities room in Death Valley, an indoor tennis facility, and a new permanent soccer stadium on Riggs Field. In addition to all of this, a continuing maintenance program for all facilities and practice areas has been established.

From a university perspective, Robinson envisions the athletic department as being one of 49 departments on campus, equal to English, accounting, admissions, and the others. "We believe the athletic department is a viable, important part of the mission of Clemson University," says Robinson, "as athletic competition provides a common bond for students, faculty, staff, and friends."

Under Robinson the athletic department has continued support of the university. Band uniforms and travel, the educational enhancement fund, and the athletic-academic endowment fund (coordinated with the Athletic Council) are some of the areas that have been developed.

Robinson has confidence in his staff, his coaches, his athletes, and the facilities at Clemson University. "We have a solid base to work from, but if we are not moving forward, we are losing ground. We will work within university guidelines and expand our horizons. We want to be as good as we can be as a vital part of the university and the State of South Carolina."

Bobby Robinson guided Clemson to a top 25 finish in both men's and women's sports last year.

Clemson University: THE SECOND CENTURY

Clemson Looks to the Future

Clemson University approaches its 100th birthday in 1989 with an aggressive plan to begin its second century of service to the state, region and country.

"Clemson University: The Second Century" names five major areas for emphasis. Its aim is to forge a partnership for economic progress among the university, the state and the private sector. It will be used as a road map to seek external support and focus the University's research and public service efforts.

The five areas are:

- AGRICULTURE — By applying the most sophisticated of tomorrow's technologies, Clemson will be able to help the agriculture industry become more efficient and profitable. Programs include such areas as biotechnology, food and nutrition, pest control, packaging, environmental science, and water and resource management.

- EMERGING TECHNOLOGIES — Advanced manufacturing systems and new materials — such as the fiber-reinforced composites — are revolutionizing industry. Clemson will contribute to the next generation of manufacturing productivity and materials through research in areas such as computer communications, robotics, semiconductor reliability and the chemical synthesis of totally new materials.

- MARKETING/MANAGEMENT — Marketing, particularly international marketing, is key to South Carolina, where more than 15 percent of total manufacturing output, and one-fourth of farm production, is exported. Clemson will emphasize marketing, as well as produce a new breed of manager — one who speaks the language of technology as fluently as the language of commerce.

- QUALITY OF LIFE — The human and natural resources that make life worth living — and sustain economic growth — must be cherished, nurtured and protected. At Clemson, programs emphasize the humanities; public school education; professional development and continuing education; community and regional planning; and the travel and tourism industry.

- TEXTILES — The U. S. textile industry is the world's most productive, and it has spent $2 billion on modernization in the last year alone to remain competitive. The state's textile industry will benefit from all of the above programs in technology, management, marketing and human resources, as well as from additional emphasis on textiles and fibers research.

From top left: shrink wrapping peaches individually to prolong shelf life is one innovative food packaging technique under study; getting robots to perform more complicated tasks is the object of Clemson's research in advanced manufacturing technologies; marketing research is vital to South Carolina, which exports more than 15 percent of total manufacturing and 25 percent of farm production; public school educational programs help prepare the next generation for its challenges; a joint project between the State Water Resources Commission and the Strom Thurmond Institute is an example of cooperative efforts between Clemson, industry and the state; research on composites and textiles at Clemson ranges from new materials for aircraft to fibers for bulletproof clothing.

Danny Ford

Clemson head coach Danny Ford is not an opera buff, he's not even close. And, it is likely that Wolfgang Mozart never saw a college football game. But, these two giants in their fields have something in common — success at a very early stage of their careers.

Mozart became famous for his ability to compose symphonies by the time he was five years old. Danny Ford was not coaching college football teams at age five, he was barely holding a football. But, a look at past national champions indicates that the current Clemson mentor is the youngest coach in the history of the college game to win the Associated Press National Championship. It puts him ahead of all the heavyweights of the game in the modern era (since 1938) of college football.

Ford took Clemson to the national title in 1981 at the age of 33 and now is the winningest coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a percentage basis. Additionally, Ford is already seventh in total wins among ACC coaches. Not bad for someone who is still two years away from his 40th birthday.

And, the success has come against top competition. Ford has already gained more wins over AP top 20 teams and top 10 teams than any other Clemson coach in history and is the only coach in ACC history (eight years experience) to have a winning record against top 20 teams (top 20 when playing against Clemson).

Clemson fans are certainly happy Ford entered the profession because he has brought a solid program to among the finest in the nation. Now in his eighth full season at Clemson, his record of 58-21-2 (.728) is the seventh best winning percentage in college football among active coaches.

Between 1981 and 1984 Clemson had a 37-6-2 ledger, the fourth best winning percentage in America. The class of '84 was the third winningest in ACC history in terms of winning percentage, and no ACC class in the 33-year history of the league ever won more games in a four-year period.

Ford has been a part of three ACC championship teams and one National Championship team at Clemson. In 1978 he was offensive coordinator for the 11-1 team that won the Gator Bowl over Ohio State, 17-15. The Gadsden, AL native was more than just the offensive coordinator in that game however, as he had become the head coach of the Tigers on December 10 after Charley Pell had already left to go to Florida. The 30-year-old Ford made quite a celebrated beginning to his head coaching career with that victory over the Woody Hayes-coached Buckeyes. The nationally televised Clemson victory helped put the Tigers on the national football map and it began Clemson's climb to among the elite of college football.

A review of Ford's football past should help us understand why he has been so successful as a head coach. Another in a long line of former Bear Bryant players that have gone on to greatness in coaching, Ford played for the Bear between 1967 and 1969. He was Kenny Stabler's sophomore tight end as a starter in 1967, played that position in 1968 and moved to offensive tackle in 1969. Ford started all three years, was all-conference in 1969 and played on three teams that went to bowl games. In 1969 he was also a member of the All-SEC academic team, and served as the captain of the Alabama team.

After Pat Dye's coaxing, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 seasons. He had already earned his B.S. degree in industrial arts and earned his master's degree in special education in 1971. Ford became a full-time aide for Bryant in 1972 and 1973. The Tide went to four bowl games while Ford was an assistant coach.

Clemson's current head man then accepted a position as an assistant coach under Jimmy Sharpe at Virginia Tech. He remained in Blacksburg for three seasons (1974-76) before coming to Clemson as offensive line coach in 1977. And, just 23 games later he was named head coach of the Tigers at the age of 30, the youngest active Division I coach in the country.

Nearly 40 years after hiring 31-year-old Alabama graduate Frank Howard, Clemson had hired 30-year-old Alabama graduate Danny Ford.

Now 38 years old, Danny Ford is running out of mountains to climb. He has been associated with 19 college football teams as a player or coach through the years and 18 have had winning regular season records and 12 have gone to bowl games. Additionally, those clubs have had a combined record of 154-59-5, a .729 winning percentage.

Assistant Coaches

Jack Crowe joined the Clemson staff on February 24, 1986, as the quarterback coach. He comes to Clemson from Auburn, where he served as offensive coordinator and coached Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson. He has also served in the offensive coordinator position at Wyoming and North Alabama, and was both an assistant and head coach at Livingston University. Crowe received his undergraduate degree from Alabama-Birmingham in 1970, and completed his master's degree in education from Livingston in 1973. The Fairfield, AL, native will recruit in the Georgia, Virginia, and Alabama areas this year.

Bill D'Andrea is the newest addition to the Clemson coaching staff as he returned to Clemson on June 23, 1986, from Southern Mississippi. Prior to that he was an assistant coach at East Carolina, the University of Virginia, Massanutten Military Academy, Catawba College, and most recently was a graduate assistant at Clemson. D'Andrea received his bachelor's degree from Indiana State in 1973, and completed his master's degree in 1975. He will assist in coaching the Clemson offensive line and will recruit for the Tigers in North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and northern New Jersey.

Miles Aldridge joined the Tiger coaching staff in June of 1985. A native of Kansas City, MO, Aldridge coaches the inside linebackers. He is responsible for recruiting in South Carolina, Florida, southern New Jersey, and the Philadelphia area. A 1971 graduate of Gardner Webb College, he is in his 16th year of coaching. Aldridge began his collegiate coaching career at East Tennessee State, after he moved to Wichita State, Tulsa, and then Mississippi. Before arriving at Clemson he served as linebacker coach at Duke for two seasons.

Woody McCorvey is in his fourth year of coaching Clemson players that catch the ball. He coached tight ends his first three years and two seasons he coached the All-ACC tight end. He is in his first season as a wide receiver coach. He recruits in North Carolina and Florida. McCorvey came to Clemson from Alabama A&M where he was defensive coordinator for four years. The 1972 Alabama State graduate lettered four years in football at the school before earning his physical education degree. He then received a master's degree in health, leisure, and sports from the University of West Florida in 1977.

Larry Van Der Heyden has coached Clemson's offensive line for the past seven years. In addition, he recruits in South Carolina, North Carolina, and western Pennsylvania. Van Der Heyden joined the Tiger coaching staff in January 1979, coming from Memphis State where he was offensive coordinator for three years. He also served stints at Iowa State, Drake, Indiana State, East Carolina, and Virginia. He earned his B.A. and master's degree at Iowa State and lettered three years in football and baseball. He is a member of the All-time Iowa State football team.

Tom Harper became Clemson's assistant head coach in February 1981. Having served as defensive coordinator at North Carolina and Iowa State, his most recent stint in that same position was at Virginia Tech. He was also Wake Forest's head coach in 1972. Harper graduated from the University of Kentucky with his bachelor's degree in 1955 and received his master's degree from there in 1958. He is responsible for recruiting in South Carolina and New York. Six of the Clemson players he has coached have played pro football, including three who were NFL starters last year (William Perry, Dan Benish, and Jeff Bryant).

Chuck Reedy has coached Clemson's running backs for the last eight years. He also has a heavy recruiting schedule covering South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and the New York-Long Island areas. The St. Augustine, FL, native earned two letters in football from Appalachian State where he was a 1971 graduate in health and physical education. He came to Clemson from Kentucky on July 5, 1978. Reedy is the main reason Clemson has signed the top player in Jacksonville five years in a row. He has coached three backs who have gone on to the NFL, including Kevin Mack, last year's AFC offensive rookie-of-the-year.

Tommy West is in his fifth season coaching the Clemson defensive and bandit ends. He recruits for the Tigers in Florida and Georgia. Prior to coming to Clemson, West coached at Appalachian State until July, 1982. The Gainesville, GA, native earned his B.S. degree in health education from the University of Tennessee in 1975 after lettering three years in football and baseball. A fine all-around athlete, West was drafted out of high school by baseball's Chicago Cubs.

Bill Oliver is in his first season at Clemson as the defensive secondary coach. He will also recruit for the Tigers in Florida, Alabama, and Georgia. A native of Livingston, AL, he began his collegiate coaching career as defensive secondary coach at Auburn, and five years later was hired by the late Paul "Bear" Bryant to fill the same position at Alabama. His most recent stint, however, was with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League where he served as senior defensive coordinator and secondary coach. Oliver was a member of the 1961 undefeated National Championship Alabama team and he received his bachelor's degree in 1962.

Clemson Coaches

Post-season activity highlighted the 1985-86 sports year at Clemson University, as 15 of the 18 athletic teams were involved in post-season championships. Ten of Clemson's teams finished in the top 30 in the nation last year, seven in the top 20, and four individuals finished runner-up in national championships. The women's program ranked 18th in the country while the men were 22nd, according to The Knoxville Journal's collegiate all-sports poll.

The Tiger teams captured four Atlantic Coast Conference titles, including an 11th ACC soccer crown, the first ever men's swimming title, a sixth men's tennis title, and fifth straight women's tennis championship.

Taking national team honors for Clemson was the defending NCAA Champion soccer team, which spent most of the year ranked number-one, but had to settle for a final national ranking of fourth after losing in the round of 16 in its 13th NCAA tournament.

The men's and women's tennis teams reached new heights as both clubs were among the favorites to win their respective NCAA titles. Chuck Kriese's Tigers spent most of the year ranked in the top three, including a school-record high of No. 2 in February, but claimed a final ranking of fifth, which marked the eighth consecutive season in the top 15. Coach Andy Johnston's Lady Tigers reached a high of fourth in the country on three different occasions and ended up eighth in the final poll.

Clemson's swimming program established a solid national reputation this season as the women finished ranked seventh in the country, best ever finish for any Clemson swim team. The men's team captured the school's first ever ACC title and wound up 35th overall at NCAAs.

Wrestling and golf maintained their strong standing among the traditional NCAA leaders. The wrestlers finished 19th in the NCAA dual meet poll and they wound up 20th at NCAAs, as Clemson had representatives at the NCAA tournament for the sixth straight year.

Coach Larry Penley guided the golfers to a fifth straight NCAA appearance, sixth overall, and a finish of 21st in the championship. Sophomore Brad Clark captured the long driving contest at the NCAA golf tournament and also led after the first day of the tournament as he shot a 68 to share the lead with eventual NCAA champ Scott Verplank of Oklahoma State and Wake Forest's Tim Straub.

The Tiger football and basketball programs were in the national spotlight once again, as the gridgers made a 12th post-season bowl appearance in the Independence Bowl and the roundballers reached the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament. Coach Danny Ford's football squad had five players selected to the All-ACC Academic team, the most ever, and more than any school in the ACC.

Clemson had six ACC MVPs last year, one less than the school record of seven. Gary Conner became the 11th Clemson soccer player to be so honored. Pam Hayden copped the women's swimming MVP, while Chuck Wade won his second straight ACC Diving MVP. Wrestler Joey McKenna was an ACC MVP recipient as he won his 150-pound division and rookie Ingelise Driehuis was the fifth Lady Tiger tennis player to be named MVP. Chuck Baldwin was chosen the league's baseball MVP, marking the third time Clemson has had back-to-back winners since 1973.

Four coaches were chosen ACC Coach-of-the-Year in their respective sports. For the second straight year Bob Boettner and Andy Johnston were accorded the honors. Boettner was selected co-coach for the women and won it outright in the men's division, while Johnston collected his third league coaching award. Soccer mentor I. M. Ibrahim won his third and Chuck Kriese picked up his second ACC award and third Southern Tennis Association Coach of the Year honor.

"IT WORKS FOR CLEMSON"

"IPTAY: It Works For Clemson."

The theme of IPTAY's 53rd campaign is aptly put. Since 1934, success in serving Clemson has been the key in making IPTAY one of the nation's premier athletic scholarship fund-raising organizations.

Founded by Dr. Rupert Fike and other friends of Clemson, IPTAY was created in Atlanta, Georgia as a secret organization to support athletic programs. From the early days when memberships were often paid up in eggs and fresh vegetables, IPTAY (I-Pay-Thirty-A-Year) has annually been one of the top organizations of its kind in the country. Today, over 20,000 active members support IPTAY annually.

IPTAY's first and foremost goal is to annually insure the financing of a quality education for nearly 400 student-athletes, trainers, and managers. Countless numbers of success stories begin with the receipt of an IPTAY scholarship, and through the generous support of IPTAY members, Clemson University has been able to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA in Clemson's 18 men's and women's varsity sports. For the over 3,000 students who have been awarded IPTAY scholarships, and for those who are still to come, without a doubt IPTAY works for them.

Because of IPTAY's commitment to excellence both in the classroom and on the playing field, the ability to expand programs has enabled IPTAY to directly benefit the entire university family. In the fall of 1984, the IPTAY Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship Fund was created to award financial support to students whose performance in the classroom warranted distinction.

The concept that supports the endowment is based on money donated by matching gift companies, as well as monies generated by television appearances and scholarship awards in such contests. What results from this endowment is one of the largest unrestricted scholarships in the history of Clemson. Perhaps the most exciting feature of the fund is its potential. As the years go on, the growth of the program will only be equalled by IPTAY's desire to work for Clemson.

Other contributions made possible to Clemson University through IPTAY include several capital improvement projects which have helped to give the university the best facilities in the nation.

Some of the current projects that are sponsored by IPTAY include an indoor tennis facility, as well as permanent soccer stadium. The indoor facility features four indoor courts, as well as permanent seating, and will be available for faculty, students, and staff when not in use by the varsity tennis teams. The soccer stadium will provide a home for the 1984 National Champions, who will once again be defending their ACC championship. Improved lighting as well as 6,000 permanent seats and a new scoreboard will give the Tiger Soccer program the facility it deserves.

Other improvements that IPTAY has established for the university as a whole include a $150,000 enhancement grant for education to be used as the university desires, improved lighting for Riggs Field, and the development of East Bank Recreation Area for student usage.

The Tiger Band will be sporting brand new uniforms as it takes the field this fall. The uniforms, as well as all expenses for band travel, are sponsored by IPTAY. This commitment, of well over $200,000, allows the Tiger Band to strut its stuff in style, both home and away.

Although the success of IPTAY's programs and the financial management of its Board of Directors have enabled IPTAY to assist in other concerns of the university, the primary concern of IPTAY is in educating young people and in servicing the needs of its membership.

IPTAY sponsors one of the most progressive tutorial programs in the country, and at any time, any athlete is able to supplement his education through the use of tutors, or the impressive study hall program. A highly-trained academic advising staff helps the student-athletes to prepare for a future, and to shape their tomorrows by studying today. Through these efforts, almost a fourth of Clemson's student-athletes were on the honor roll in the spring semester of 1986.

Working for IPTAY members is one of the major goals of the IPTAY Board and the internal staff. Each IPTAY member receives personal service to their account, and is constantly kept abreast of the programs of Clemson through the IPTAY office. Every member receives thirty-five issues of the Orange and White each year. As the official publication of IPTAY, the Orange and White is exclusively distributed to IPTAY members, and features indepth coverage of Clemson athletics.

IPTAY is a part of Clemson in many ways. Through its various programs and contributions, the 20,000 members of IPTAY spread their support of Clemson throughout the entire university family. There is no doubt that this year's theme echoes loudly through the red hills of upstate South Carolina, because IPTAY truly works for Clemson.

Allison Dalton
Executive Secretary of IPTAY

Emergency Services

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck.) These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South Stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of prior existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and physical exertion. Be certain that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, fainting, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problem at football games are heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will continue to always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

Unparalleled Facility

— by Sam Blackman

The strength of a building relies upon its foundation. At the Jervy athletic center, near the foundation of the building, the base of a solid athletic program is being built seven days a week, 12 hours a day. The type of building and formation taking place is making good athletes into better ones by making them stronger, more flexible and better conditioned for their respective sports.

The Clemson weight room is one of the reasons the Tigers' winning roar is heard more and more often. The weight room has grown just as a 90 pound weakling develops into a Mr. Universe. Started nearly 10 years ago with store-bought weight benches and a few dead weights, the Clemson strength and conditioning room is one of the finest if not the finest facilities of its kind in the nation.

A facility of this nature is just as good as the people who run it, and at Clemson the athletes have the best of both worlds. The strength training complex is managed by former Detroit Lions Head Strength Coach Gary Wade. He supervises the facility and his knowledge of the profession is second to none. The Nebraska native is assisted by Joey Batson, Jeff Hurd, Matt Munford and Brett Dalton. Each coach is assigned a sport and is responsible for the workout program, and the charting of the athletes' progress in that sport.

The 8,000 square-foot facility houses the latest in strength and conditioning equipment, which includes Nautilus, AMF equipment, and 10 tons of free weights. With a recent expansion of 12 new ceiling fans, a 16-speaker sound system and new windows that let beautiful South Carolina sunshine penetrate each corner of the room, it is an unparalleled facility.

"The weight room has a great atmosphere," commented Wade. "I have been fortunate to see a lot of weight rooms, but this has to be the best environment anywhere. Even at 3:00 in the afternoon when there are 150 people in here it still has a great atmosphere. The athletes like it and, if you require as much work from them as we do, it is important to have a good atmosphere. It is a place they can take pride in," continued Wade.

If one examines this showplace of iron and metal, one sees the equipment is neatly arranged in systematic order. "Our weight room is set up by body parts. We have the equipment arranged so that a lot of people can go through a workout simultaneously without running into each other."

Although the Clemson weight room offers the Tiger athletes an excellent place to lift, Wade is quick to tell you that consistency and intensity are the key to it all. "A lot of people try to make strength and conditioning complex, and thus a lot of high school coaches and athletes get confused about the many programs. But, all it takes is a simple dedication, intensity and consistency. People have revolutionary ideas how to get stronger in shorter periods of time, but there are no short cuts."

At Clemson, the football strength training program is divided into two parts, the in-season program and the off-season program. The in-season program is used during the football season and spring football practice, and the off-season program is used for the remainder of the year.

"The in-season program is a maintenance program that we feel will aid a football player throughout the season. This allows them to maintain their strength throughout the season and if he doesn't maintain his level of conditioning it will drop considerably. The purpose of the off-season program is to develop strength and endurance so that by the start of the season the athlete will be in the best possible condition. It is during this time that the athlete will make strength gains."

Football players are not the only ones that benefit from the strength training facility. The Clemson weight room is used by every athlete in Clemson's 18 varsity sports and a program is devised for each particular sport and their athletes. "We have a workout for all sports," says Wade. "We look at each sport and examine the activities and movements, in order to tailor a program around the individual sport. We assign a person from our staff to each sport to be responsible for that sport's workout. We then break it down further by designing a program for the individual athlete and his or her personal needs. Each sport takes advantage of a great strength program. Each athlete is evaluated every two weeks and progress is charted and examined by members of our staff through our computer system.

"We are fortunate to have good athletes to work with in the first place," stated Wade. "We can get the most out of players by making them stronger, flexible, and building endurance to develop them physically as much as possible. He owes that to himself and to his teammates to be the best he can be.

"In this profession you should never think that you are strong enough, it just doesn't happen that way. We aim for explosive strength and endurance, and we want the same drive level for an entire athletic event. If we were not concerned with playing the entire game, we would overload the athlete and have people with 500 bench presses."

So the next time you are in attendance at a Clemson athletic event and you see a bone crushing tackle or a long fly ball hit over the fence, or a slam dunk, it was probably the result of hard work in the weight room.

Michael Dean Perry works in the weight room to help him control opponents on Saturdays.

Unorthodox Lineup

Clemson is expecting a landmark baseball season with an unusual lineup.

Bill Wilhelm owns 805 wins at Clemson, more than any other Tiger coach.

When you look at the tentative batting order for the 1987 Clemson baseball team you might think veteran coach Bill Wilhelm has been out in the sun too long. The lineup violates many of the basic axioms of baseball, yet the strategy led to Clemson's winningest season ever in 1986. The team returns virtually intact as the Tigers appear to be a good bet to recapture the ACC title.

"People think I'm off my rocker when they look at my lineup card," said Wilhelm, who led Clemson to a 42-21 ledger last year, the second most wins in a season in ACC history. "We will have a catcher bat leadoff, and probably have the outfielders hit seven, eight and nine. Our power will be supplied by a second baseman and a shortstop. That is about as strange a lineup as you can have, but it is the most effective lineup for Clemson."

An examination of the statistics tells us that Wilhelm, who has 805 career wins, does in fact know what he is doing. Bert Heffernan is not your classic catcher, as he has the quickness and ability to get on base needed in a leadoff hitter. "I have never had a tougher youngster play for me," said Wilhelm. "Bert will beat a team more ways than anybody I have ever coached."

Heffernan hit .331 from the leadoff slot last year and had a Clemson record 55 walks. He also displayed good power with 28 extra base hits, which tied for second on the Clemson team.

The man he tied was Bill Spiers, Clemson's starting punter on the gridiron this fall. As good a season as Spiers is having in football, he is even better in baseball and probably will be drafted this summer. A .345 career hitter, Spiers set a Clemson record for runs scored and stolen bases last year, and he hit .443 over the last 29 games.

Spiers will start at shortstop (hence the moniker "Bill Shortstop" from Danny Ford this fall), and is one half of an all-star double play combo at Clemson. The other half is ACC MVP Chuck Baldwin, the first returning ACC MVP in Clemson history. Baldwin batted .370 last year and set a new ACC record with 23 doubles, 107 hits and 289 at bats. He also led the Clemson pitching staff in saves with five and pitched to a team best 2.45 ERA. For his efforts he was named a second-team All-American last year at first base, but he will move to second base this year, the position he played as a freshman.

The corners probably will be manned by a veteran and a newcomer. At third will be Steve Baucom, the number-two hitter on the Clemson team last year with a .369 average. Baucom is one of five fifth-year seniors on the Clemson roster, perhaps the most experienced team in Wilhelm's 30 years as a coach. Mike Milchin should be the starter at first. He participated in the 1986 Sports Festival and was a member of the state championship team in Virginia last year.

The outfield will be led by Ray Williams, one of three baseball players on the Clemson football roster today, and Randy Maze. Williams should start in left field, but could move to center if Maze cannot recover from a shoulder injury. While Williams is Clemson's all-time leader in kickoff return yardage on the gridiron, he is number-two ranked in baseball annals at Clemson in career home runs with 30. He hit 16 round-trippers last year, including the clinching blow in a victory over South Carolina that gave Wilhelm his 800th win.

by Tim Bourret

Maze hit .336 in an All-ACC season last year. He hit well over .400 during a mid-season stretch when he helped Clemson win 17 of 19 games. Jerry Brooks, last year's DH, had a .338 average in 1986 and should move to right field. Mark Biegert and Steve Williams are two more seniors who should challenge for the starting outfield slots. Biegert hit .279 last season, while Williams hit .329 in 47 games as a catcher, outfielder and DH.

Every pitcher that saw action last year returns to the staff this year, a first in Wilhelm's long career. "We don't have a stopper on our pitching staff, but we have some consistent pitchers who can win," said Wilhelm. "We would like to have a dominant pitcher who can strike out nine batters a game, but we don't."

Bill Steele should be the leader of the staff based on a 9-3 record of 1986. He led the team in innings pitched with 109 1/3 and led the staff in starts with 16. Another senior is Oliver Whitaker, who had 12 starts last year on the way to a 5-3 ledger. Brian Barnes led the club in strikeouts with 53 and could improve on his 3-2 record.

Phillip Lowery was the top winner out of the bullpen with a 7-3 record. He also had the best strikeout to walk ratio with 38 Ks against just 20 walks. Alan Botkin should also see a lot of time as a starter after a 5-2 record last season, while Mark Huggins had a 4-1 ledger for 22 relief appearances.

The hardest thrower on the club might be a newcomer as Mike Pomeranz showed some heat last year in an all-star season for Miami Dade North Junior College.

The schedule, as usual, is difficult, but the highlight is the ACC tournament on almost home turf. The tourney will be in Greenville Municipal Stadium this year in May and it could be one of the most exciting weeks of baseball in this area in a long time. It will be worth the price of admission to see if Wilhelm and his unorthodox lineup can bring the ACC title and an NCAA bid back to Clemson.

LIFE REACH... SAVING TIME. SAVING LIVES.

The Life Reach helicopter is a familiar sight in South Carolina's skies. Its mission is to remove the obstacles—time and distance—that can prevent critically ill or injured patients from reaching the care they need to live.

With Life Reach, physicians in communities across the state can send these patients to the medical referral center best able to handle their specific problems.

The helicopter is fully equipped for intensive care, and staffed with a team of critical care specialists. So besides providing fast transportation, we can maintain the necessary level of care and life support for our patients.

Providence has expanded the services offered by the Life Reach helicopter to all who need immediate, continuous intensive care during transport—cardiovascular, head injury, internal hemorrhage, burn, and other patients. We can handle transfers from hospitals, accident scenes, or clinics to Providence or any hospital within a 150 mile range.

There are South Carolinians alive today because the helicopter got them to the help they needed. Life Reach is saving lives—by saving time.

Our Mission Is Transition III

Cliff Ellis' third team is ready for an NCAA bid.

Led by the return of one of the best big men in the nation and a record-setting point guard, the chances of a third straight post-season appearance for the Clemson basketball program are very high. Horace Grant, one of the best all-around players at Clemson in a number of years, and Grayson Marshall, the ACC's number-two assist man last year, will be back to see if Clemson can improve on its victory total for the fourth straight season.

The 1985-86 Clemson team was one victory short of the 20-win plateau and the second most successful post-season Tiger team in history. Wyoming kept the Tigers from a trip to New York for the Final Four of the NIT as Clemson finished strong in the nation's oldest post-season tournament. With the return of six of the top eight scorers off Clemson's club last year, many expect the Tigers to advance to the NCAA tournament in 1987.

"Our goal is certainly to advance to the NAAs," says Cliff Ellis. "I think this is a realistic goal because we have some talented players back, plus a good recruiting class. The class coming in has experience with good programs and I think many of them can help us right away."

THE FRONT COURT

Grant is the top returning player off a season that saw him lead the Atlantic Coast Conference in rebounding, just the second player in Clemson history to pace the competitive conference in that category. His 357 rebounds were just two off Tree Rollins' single season record and he was one of just three players to rank in the top 10 in the conference in scoring, rebounding, field goal percentage and free throw percentage. He finished 10th in the nation in rebounding and 27th in field goal percentage.

"With Horace Grant leading our inside game and Grayson Marshall triggering our fast-break we should be able to run with any team this year," says Ellis, who is in his third season at Clemson. "Even though Horace Grant will be playing out of position at the center position much of the time, he might be the best inside player in the league this year. He is an aggressive player who is improving all the time. He really put some great numbers on the board against excellent teams."

Grant did indeed have some outstanding statistics in his junior year as he averaged 16.4 points and 10.5 rebounds a game. He also shot 58.4 percent from the field and 73 percent from the line. He even finished second on the club in assists.

Joining Grant at the center and strong forward position is freshman Elden Campbell. The 6-10 player from Morningside High School in Los Angeles had an excellent senior year with a 23-point average. He also had a great summer of 1986 as he was a top player for the California AAU team in the national tournament in Jacksonville, FL. In one contest he had 28 points in a head-to-head battle with UNC recruit J. R. Reid.

"Campbell is a Cinderella story in that he came on late," says Ellis. "We feel he is a good athlete and a good passer who will help us a lot this year. He is really the most natural center we have on this year's club and hopefully we can move Grant to his more natural power forward position if Campbell comes on."

Ellis will have two pure power forwards, a player who can play the four-spot or the three-spot, and a prototype small forward at his disposal. Jerry Pryor was the sixth man for the Tigers most of last season and he had a solid rookie year with a 6.5 average. The native of Georgia pulled in 153 rebounds for the season, second only to Tree Rollins in rebounds by a freshman in Clemson history. He is a player that should move into the starting lineup as the number-four slot with the graduation of Glen McCants and Glenn Corbit.

Anthony Jenkins is a player who can help at the small or big forward slot. The 24-year-old senior is one of just two active ACC players who have made a three-point goal in his career and the fine outside shooter should benefit from the new college rule. Jenkins was fifth in the ACC in 1982-83 in three-point goal percentage. He averaged 5.6 points a game last year, but led the Tigers in field goal shooting in ACC games with a 59 percent mark.

Jeff Holstein has returned for another season. The senior engineering major will graduate in December, but will take graduate courses in the second semester. The forward saw more and more action as the year went on as he is a big help under the boards. He started against Georgia Tech near the end of last season.

Ricky Jones is a fourth forward who should challenge for a starting slot. The consensus All-American led the state of South Carolina in scoring for the second straight season last year with a 26.2 average. The 6-7 native of Pendleton, SC was a McDonald's All-American and the Player-of-the-Year in South Carolina.

"With Holstein, Pryor, Jones and Jenkins we should have a good blend this season upfront. I look for Jerry Pryor to be a much improved player. I think he learned a lot from his experiences last season. Jenkins is a veteran who should help us from the outside and Holstein was getting better and better as the year went on. Jones is as talented a player as Clemson has recruited in recent years and he has an excellent chance of starting in his first season."

THE BACKCOURT

"If we are to be an improved team this year we must get better outside shooting," says Ellis. "We were not consistent enough from the perimeter and it hurt us. At times last year opponents played an accordion defense on Horace Grant because we could not hit the shot from the wings. I firmly believe we have the players who have the ability to make that shot and that of course would make Horace Grant and the other inside people even more effective."

The man who makes the Clemson offense run is record-setting point guard Grayson Marshall. The two-year starter improved his field goal percentage by six points last year and dealt out 262 assists. Few players in the nation could match Marshall's assist total in 1985-86 as he ranked in a tie for 13th in the country. Marshall now has 454 assists for his career, already second in Clemson history and the most ever by an ACC player after just two seasons of play. He also scored 8.3 points a game a year ago, including a career high 19 points in the NIT game at Wyoming.

Larry Middleton is a third returning starter for the Tigers. The 6-3 guard averaged 11.4 points per outing and paced the club in free throw percentage with a 75-percent mark. The adoption of the three-point goal should make him a valuable performer this season. Michael Tait is another senior guard from California who should contribute. He served as a reserve point guard last year, hit 82 percent of his free throws and had just 31 turnovers in 27 games.

Grayson Marshall quarterback the offense.

Michael Best should also benefit by the rule change. Best saw little action early last year, but improved dramatically at season's end. He had 20 points in his first career start against number-one North Carolina and followed that with a 16-point performance against Maryland that helped Clemson to a very important victory.

Two newcomers should help the Clemson backcourt situation, Michael Brown and Tim Kincaid. Brown should battle with Middleton and Best for the starting wing guard slot, although he does have Division I experience at the point position. The 6-4 guard played at Syracuse for a year and a half and will be eligible on December 14 this year. He averaged 8.2 points a game for the Orangemen and shot 53 percent from the field for his year and a half of play. He is another Tiger from Dunbar High School in Baltimore.

Kincaid is a freshman point guard who comes to Clemson from the same high school that produced former Tiger star guard Vincent Hamilton. Like Hamilton, Kincaid led RS Central to the state title with a 29-win season as he averaged nearly 21 points per game. The 6-3 guard also dealt out 7.0 assists per game and shot 76 percent from the foul line.

"Overall we should be a team that should run and score points," says Ellis. "We have an unusual situation in that we might have the best inside player in the league, but at the same time not having a pure center could be a weakness. We also must come through with our outside shooting and obviously some people who have never played for Clemson must come through, and that is not easy to do in the ACC."

Some people set higher standards for themselves. They come out early. And stay late. Funny, how they're usually the winners.

At Ricoh, we set higher product standards. And we put in that extra effort. Maybe that's why Ricoh's line of copiers, digital facsimile, laser printers, and shredders are setting new standards of performance in today's modern office. And that's why Ricoh cameras are winning the attention of amateurs and professionals alike in the world of photography.

Be a winner. Demand that extra effort. Ask for Ricoh. We Respond.

IT'S A JUNGLE OUT THERE.

Phillips Fibers Marvess® olefin is your guide to superior contract carpet.

It's a jungle out there, with thousands of pairs of feet walking, running and stomping on your carpet. Countless spills and constant cleaning. Sunlight and humidity.

Graphic contract carpet made with tough Marvess olefin BCF yarn outlasts the competition for a lot of good reasons.

You can now have beautifully luxurious, soft, strong Marvess olefin carpet for about the same price as standard grades of contract carpet. So you get a lot more value for your money. And Marvess olefin comes in 50 solid shades—styling colors developed especially for the commercial market.

Further, performance of a carpet is judged almost exclusively by its appearance retention. The following characteristics are what make Marvess olefin a better buy:

Marvess olefin carpet is highly stain-resistant and easily cleaned. And the color is more stable due to the use of selected pigments rather than dyes. These less permanent dyes are used to color nylon, polyester or acrylic carpet yarn.

Marvess olefin carpet has a high abrasion resistance and is chemically resistant as well. It is also performance rated over a 5-year period for no more than 10% pile weight loss.

Graphics carpet featuring Marvess yarn retains its appearance after heavy traffic over a longer period of time and resists static buildup, too. Additionally, it passes the Department of Commerce's Standard DOC f-1-70 "pill test" for flammability.

No other contract carpet will give you the durability, lasting color retention and wide choice of brilliant colors.

For your next contract carpet application, specify Phillips Fibers Marvess olefin.

Clemson University is observing the Statue of Liberty restoration with our own two-week celebration this month, kicked off by this weekend's Homecoming festivities.

Although the statue's rededication occurred in July, the 100th anniversary of the unveiling of "Liberty Enlightening the World" is October 28.

Miss Liberty

Clemson will have its own anniversary celebration.

From Oct. 15-31, University events will feature the themes of liberty and freedom, says Lynn Craig, professor of architecture and co-chairman of the committee organizing the celebration.

Craig hopes people visitors to campus will take part in some events. "We particularly hope children will see the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island exhibit in Lee Hall Gallery."

That exhibit will run Oct. 15-30. The gallery will be open today from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. and following the football game from 3:30-5 p.m. Normal gallery hours are 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. weekdays and 2-5 p.m. Sundays.

Also scheduled:

— an Oct. 20 lecture by Richard Hayden, chief architect for the restoration, at 8 p.m., Lee Hall Gallery.

— a "Musical Salute to the Statue of Liberty Composers" Oct. 21 at 8 p.m., Daniel auditorium.

— a conference on "U.S. Immigration Policy: Current Trends and the Future," sponsored by the Strom Thurmond Institute October 28.

The Children's Literature Symposium on October 25 will also feature the liberty theme, as will the events surrounding Homecoming.

Last night's Tigerama featured skits and fireworks on the liberty theme, as did many of the Homecoming displays.

Today at half-time, Tiger Band will execute a Statue of Liberty formation, and international students will march in a parade of flags of the nations represented in the Clemson student body. Those nations are:

It is the most cursed, yet cherished piece of equipment anchored on our desks. What has become the soul of our business, of course, is the latest technology in the workplace — the computer.

When it is operating smoothly, disseminating information at speeds far in excess of our previous capability, we are contented little beings. But, just be a fly on the wall when the computer is down or running at a snail's pace, and you see how we become slaves to the "slave printer."

The Clemson Athletic Department has been computerized for a little over a year now. Each department, from tickets, to football, to sports information, to strength training, conducts a major portion of its work via the computer. Each area has its own prescribed software package designed to expedite the workload.

Every office has a word processor, and this is probably the most utilized component of the system. If you want a secretary to smile just ask her how much she likes the word processor. This function allows the preparation of copy for letters, sports releases, reports or documentaries. What makes this function so convenient over a typewriter is the ability to edit the copy.

Although many people claim a computer further categorizes people by mere numbers, this simply is not the case. Actually it makes communication with prospects and customers all the more personal. The word processor makes it possible to generate "customized" mailings of form letters with specific information automatically inserted in each letter. This is particularly invaluable in reaching recruits.

Tiger sports fans probably recognized Clemson's switchover to computers when they received their 1986 football ticket application. "This is the first season our tickets have been printed out on our own computer," said Van Hilderbrand, assistant athletic director and ticket manager. "I can't tell you how much overtime work has been saved. Most importantly, the system has allowed us to become more personal with the customer with much more information readily accessible."

The football and men's basketball offices are almost completely automated. These offices utilize game analysis and the recruiting system the most. Prospect information, ranging from name, address, parents' address, high school coach, prep statistics, height, weight, etc., along with records of official visits with the athletes are kept.

Football secretary Elaine Swearingen feels the system has made recruiting more thorough. "It has a better way to cross check recruits and really quickened the process of communicating with them."

The game analysis runs a statistical scouting program for the coaches that is second to none. Tiger football coach Danny Ford can learn from a report how often North Carolina will call a screen pass out of the I-formation on third-and-eight from the right hashmark in the fourth quarter from their own 42 yard line. Basketball coach Cliff Ellis can learn more about opponent players and their tendencies against man-to-man or zone defenses, the ratio of a player's fouls or field goals per minute.

In fact, Shirley Garrison, the secretary in the basketball office, has been known to go to all ends to collect opponent statistics which will help her prepare the best scouting report possible.

Computerized

Everyone in the Clemson Athletic Department benefits from the new Paciolan software package, even Danny Ford.

"Last year I was unable to get minutes played for one school," she revealed. "Every time I called their basketball office they told me they didn't keep minutes played, which is a key factor in compiling the variance report. So, I learned that a tabloid covering the school (similar to Clemson's Orange & White) kept minutes played, so we just started subscribing to that publication to get the information."

The computer in the sports information office has made going to work on Sundays so much nicer, not to mention cutting an hour off generating cumulative stats following each game. We are the statistical compilation firm for the athletic teams, not to mention sports reporters. While the reporters bring alive the emotions of a game, we provide you with their impressive string of stats (yards gained, pass completions, scoring totals, first downs gained rushing or passing, etc.).

Keeping up with athletes' injuries has been greatly enhanced as assistant trainer Reno Wilson explains: "We are able to file an athlete's complete medical history, detailing all injuries, in addition to noting pertinent information that may be needed urgently. This information is carried by our trainers to all away events and has proved invaluable. Recently one of our soccer players suffered a concussion and was unable to tell us his social security number. But our computer printouts solved that problem."

Equipment manager Bobby Douglas uses the inventory system to keep track of departmental equipment. A student file is kept for each athlete, and as equipment is checked out to the athlete, the inventory system automatically registers this. And, strength Coach Gary Wade's computer allows him to chart an athlete's progress in the weight room.

Time is what none of us seem to have enough of, but the computers have allowed us to save time and expand our services. Whether it is keeping track of inventory or football ticket orders, or compiling statistics, or writing letters, almost everything the athletic department does is made a little easier by the computer.

Shirley Garrison prepares statistical reports on every Clemson basketball opponent.

Tigers In the Crowd

— Kassie Kessinger

Bernard Gray
Annandale, VA

Gray, 21, is one of four first-team All-ACC performers on Clemson's defending league soccer champions. The senior speedster plays in the backfield for Coach I. M. Ibrahim's club, where he was considered the best sweeper in the conference a year ago. And, according to Coach Ibrahim, he could be one of the best at Clemson ever with a good season in 1986. In 1985 he was chosen All-South by the National Board of Intercollegiate Coaches. His outstanding defense was one of the main reasons Clemson allowed just 21 goals that year (1985). During Clemson's national championship season two years ago, Gray suffered an early-season injury but was around for 21 games and Clemson's title game. As a prepster at Falls Church High School in Virginia, Gray led his team in scoring all four years en route to being named MVP each of those years. Born June 14, 1965, Gray is a financial management major at Clemson.

Ingelise Driehuis
Lisse, Holland

Driehuis, 19, burst upon the collegiate tennis scene a year ago, landing All-America honors and winning the ACC's MVP award in her rookie season. Playing number-two singles for Coach Andy Johnston's top 10 club, Driehuis fashioned the best mark on the team with a 37-8 record. The 5-foot-10 Holland native was Clemson's only double ACC tennis winner, winning both the number-two singles and doubles flights. She also was the only Lady Tiger to be selected to compete in both the singles and doubles competition at the '86 NCAA championship. Last season's pre-season HITS rankings placed her 37th, but she eventually climbed into the top 10 by mid-February. A chemistry major, Driehuis brought home a perfect 4.00 grade point ratio in her first semester and wound up the year with a 3.90 GPA. This classroom distinction earned her selection to the ACC Honor Roll. Driehuis was born September 17, 1967 in Amsterdam, Holland.

Elsa Breit
Wilhelmshaven,
W. Germany

Breit, 22, is one of Clemson's top cross country and track athletes. She is the returning outdoor ACC Champion in the 1500 meters, clocking a winning time of 4:23.77 in the same event in which she took fifth one year earlier. A senior, Breit also is a veteran of NCAA cross country and track championships. This season she helped the Lady Tigers to a second straight Georgia State Invitational title by placing fourth overall with a time of 17:55. Last fall she crossed the finish line 12th in the league meet and 18th at the NCAA District III championship. The 5-5, 110-pounder also excels in the classroom as she enters her final academic year with a solid 3.54 grade point average in microbiology. Her sterling classroom marks have earned her a spot on the ACC's Honor Roll for academic achievement the past three years.

Martin Flynn
Longford, Ireland

Flynn, 22, enters his final season of competition the pre-season favorite among Southern regional cross country competitors, according to Inside Track. He paced the Tiger harriers last year, placing second in the ACC championship and sixth at the NCAA District III meet. He will be aiming for a third All-ACC cross country performance this fall as he finished ninth at the '83 league championship. His track contributions have been equally impressive. In addition to competing in two of the last three NCAA cross country championships, he's been to the 1985 indoor NCAA meet and the last two outdoor championships. At the '86 ACC outdoor track meet he successfully defended his '85 5000-meter title run and also captured a third league crown by winning the 1500 meter event. A financial management major, Flynn is a solid pupil as evidenced by his three-year grade point ratio of 3.4. Twice he has been named to the ACC's Honor Roll.

Bert Heffernan
Centerreach, NY

Heffernan, 21, returns for his third campaign following an outstanding sophomore season in which he was chosen second-team All-ACC as a catcher.

Named Clemson's "Mr. Taps" for 1986, Heffernan set a Clemson record for drawing the most walks (55) and he topped the club in game-winning RBIs with eight. His RBI total of 58 was the second best total for Coach Bill Wilhelm's '86 ballclub. Red-shirted as a freshman, Heffernan is a .339 career hitter and has 165 total hits and 107 RBIs. His three-run triple against top ranked Miami last spring keyed a Clemson rally in the eighth inning of the second game and helped the Tigers to an upset victory. With two seasons left to play, Heffernan could very well figure, if not top, Clemson in nine of 12 individual statistical categories. Majoring in administrative management, Heffernan was born March 3, 1965.

Brian Page
Palos Hills, IL

Page, 20, is a top candidate to start at number-one singles for Coach Chuck Kriese's top five tennis program. He played a key role in Clemson's climb to the top of the collegiate poll a year ago in February, and a final national rating of fifth by May. Last fall, as a sophomore, Page won 17 of 23 matches and moved all the way from his rookie spot of fifth in the lineup to the top slot by January. For the season he compiled a 36-22 overall singles mark, mostly at number-three, and was chosen Clemson's most improved player. An equally outstanding doubles player, Page teamed with Matt Frooman to post a 27-9 slate and at one point the pair was ranked 10th best in the nation. Overall he dropped just 12 doubles matches in 43 outings and sports a career mark of 54-26. Page has won 60 percent of his career singles matches for Clemson, taking a record of 73-49 into his junior year. Nicknamed "The Crusher," Page was born May 8, 1966 and is majoring in accounting.

Tiger Life

For the past 52 years thousands of you have displayed your unsurpassed loyalty to Clemson by making IPTAY one of the greatest athletic scholarship groups in America.

Now there are some individuals who want to make another unique effort for Clemson by providing an endowment to assure the future security and success of the Clemson Athletic Department.

Tiger Life is a program through which you can make an affordable investment over a few years to insure a sizable future gift to the Clemson Athletic Department.

Nuclear energy is part of our way of life.

Fortunately, so is Chem-Nuclear.

Nuclear energy is important to us in South Carolina—it is used to generate more than half of the electricity we use. So, when you turn on the lights, or the television, there's a good chance the electricity you're using comes from a nuclear generating plant.

Nuclear energy and technology are also vitally important in medical research and the treatment of many diseases. Industries, too, use nuclear materials in productive, socially useful applications.

But like almost every other aspect of modern life, both the production of electricity and the other uses of nuclear technology create waste. Most materials that come into contact with radioactive substances become contaminated and must be properly handled. Even slightly contaminated articles like tools and rags have to be disposed of with care.

That's where Chem-Nuclear comes in. We've developed much of the technology used in the management of low level radioactive waste—from processing, packaging, and transportation to permanent disposal. And we provide all those services to utilities, hospitals, universities and industries in every area of South Carolina.

These Chem-Nuclear services all have one goal—protecting public health and safety and preserving our environment. Everything we do is carried out with the highest degree of safety-consciousness and attention to detail—no corners are cut.

Modern life produces waste. Whether it's your family's garbage that can be hauled to a sanitary landfill, or the low level radioactive waste produced when you turn on a light, it must be managed properly if the quality of our environment is to be maintained.

All of us play a part in the generation of low level radioactive waste. Fortunately, Chem-Nuclear can handle it.

The race-winning Corvette of Rippie/Anderson Motorsports.
Tires: Goodyear Eagle VR S "Gatorback" street radials.*

The fact that both of these Corvettes are on Goodyear Eagle street radials is no coincidence.

The 1986 Corvette Convertible.
Factory specified tires: Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radials.

Every Corvette made since 1984 comes with just one make of tire: the Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radial.

Which is no coincidence.

Because the Eagle VR "Gatorback" was developed specifically for the Corvette's tremendous cornering, handling and speed capabilities.

Considering the performance of the Eagle VR "Gatorback," it's not surprising that successful

SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance racing teams like Rippie/Anderson also choose an Eagle street radial.*

The Eagle VR S "Gatorback," a version of the Eagle VR "Gatorback" made for ultimate grip rather than ultimate treadlife.

The success of both the Eagle VR and VR S "Gatorbacks" has a common source:

Goodyear's ability to engineer better high-performance radials. For virtually every performance car.

So it's really no coincidence that the Eagle VR is to be found on every Corvette made.

Or that the Eagle VR S is the favorite tire of people who race Corvettes in the SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance Series.

In fact, when you think of how the Eagles perform, it's no coincidence at all.

*Tires shaved to racing depth. Before you race on Goodyear street radials, write the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, P.O. Box 9125 Akron, Ohio 44305 for preparation recommendations and procedures.

YOU EITHER HAVE GOODYEAR EAGLES. OR YOU NEED THEM.

As fall is for football, Homecoming is for reflection. Today's Homecoming will bring back many Clemson memories of friends, games, and exciting events and people. Looking back on this day also provides glimpses of many exciting October 18 contests. The Tigers have battled six times on this day with some victories and some losses but always creating more exciting memories for Clemson fans.

Hidden Ball Trick

Clemson took home the win but not the ball against Georgia Tech 84 years ago today.

1902 — John Heisman's Clemson team trounced Tech 44-5 this day, but more on that later. This game was probably remembered more for its ending than for the actual contest. As the game concluded at Atlanta's Brisbane Park, the Tigers, as victors, prepared to receive the game ball, which was considered a great prize in those days.

The Tech men, however, had other plans for the winning ball tradition. Brinson, the Tech quarterback, threw the ball to some Tech men who ran off with it, reported the Atlanta Constitution. Of course, this ball was Clemson's so it looked like trouble might ensue. Fortunately, the coaches and captains were able to separate the teams and order was restored. The next day Tech returned the ball and said it was just a joke.

Be as it may, the game was rather humorous for the large Clemson contingent that followed the team to Atlanta. Clemson rolled over Tech as Heisman's "much talked of trick plays worked to perfection," said the Constitution. Vet Sitton, who later played for the Cleveland Indians, was the standout with three touchdowns on jaunts of 85, 80, and 50 yards. The Clemson defense was tough, holding Tech throughout. Another Tiger standout was Henry Tillman, son of South Carolina's United States Senator Ben Tillman. Henry displayed the same qualities of "grit and determination" of his father, said the Constitution. The stolen ball event could probably be considered a foreshadowing, as they say in Daniel Hall. Two years later Tech would offer Clemson's Heisman more money and steal him away as its new coach.

1929 — "Wofford entertained the much-heralded jungle-beast, and they were entertained themselves with pretty running exhibitions by the whole Tiger backfield that accounted for 30 points," said the yearbook TAPS. O. D. Padgett and Johny Justus were the Clemson standouts in the 30-0 romp.

1969 — It was Homecoming on this day and it also turned out to be Ray Yaeger Day. The junior rushed 36 times for 202 yards and scored two touchdowns for the Tigers in leading them to a 28-14 triumph over Wake Forest before 31,000 fans at Death Valley. The game was a tight one, with Clemson capturing the lead for good late in the fourth quarter when Yaeger went in for a touchdown from one yard. Charlie Waters scored a little later for the Tigers on a double reverse to secure the victory.

1975 — Duke topped the Tigers 25-21 in Durham as Tony Benjamin ramblled 18 yards for a touchdown with 1:38 remaining. Clemson had led 21-10 in the second quarter, but the Blue Devils rallied. Clemson's Willie Jordan ran for one touchdown and threw a touchdown pass to Joey Walters.

1980 — Duke again defeated Clemson on this day, this time 34-17 (not another foreshadowing!). Before 60,300 at Death Valley, Duke snapped an 11-game losing streak. Freshman Ben Bennett passed for 257 yards to lead the Blue Devils. Duke defensive back Dennis Tabron intercepted three passes, including one for 87 yards and a touchdown. He was named national Player-of-the-Week by Sports Illustrated. Duke's quarterback Bennett also caught a touchdown pass in the second half on a throw from his halfback. As Bennett crossed the Tiger end zone, he thrust the ball in the face of several Clemson players, drawing a penalty. But, old Ben never tasted victory again against the Tigers as many players seemed to remember that play.

Buddy Gore rushed for 202 yards on this date in 1969.

TIGER BAND

by David Webb

A greater-than-usual chill is certain to run the course of the spines of Tiger faithful today as the stirring chords of the Alma Mater are played. This is homecoming — or rather coming home — and the binds of loyalty, spirit, and honor that tie the Orange and White together draw the Clemson family home today. All Tigers may not be in the Valley now, but for homecoming, all Tigers are present in spirit.

All-Americans

Tiger Band had a good representation at the Statue of Liberty celebration.

Tiger Band is part of that special aura, and it gets the spirit flowing with its pregame show. The pageantry begins with "Sock It To 'Em," the Orange Bowl March, and continues with the ever-arousing "Tiger Rag."

Today's guest-of-honor dotting the "i" in Tigers is Mr. Walter K. Lewis, president of the Clemson University Alumni Association. A member of the Clemson Class of '37, Lewis received his Bachelor's degree in Textile Chemistry and served as a Senior Marketing Specialist for Sonoco Products Company before retiring. Lewis has led the Alumni Association since July 1, 1985 and will serve until June 30, 1987.

The pregame show continues with "You're A Grand Old Flag" and "America The Beautiful," directed by Dr. Richard Goodstein with the latter being accompanied by the Clemson University Chorus. Dr. Bruce Cook will then conduct Tiger Band's rendition of "The Star-Spangled Banner," and Mr. Mark Jessie will lead our Clemson University Alma Mater. The colors will be presented by an entourage from Pershing Rifles, Company C-4, and the invocation will be offered by The Reverend Jeff Clayton, chaplain of the Clemson Presbyterian Student Association. The pregame show concludes as the Tigers rev 'em up and roar down the hill to take on the Duke Blue Devils to the tune of Tiger Rag!

Game fans will be entertained with a myriad of halftime features. Tiger Band will start things off with their halftime show, "A Salute To Miss Liberty." All music today was performed at the Liberty Weekend Celebration last July 3-6 in New York City, and it reflects the musical talent of all Americans.

The show opens with "Liberty Fanfare and Theme," featuring the brass section. This piece, which opened all ceremonies at Liberty Weekend, was composed by John Williams and arranged by James Sochinski. The CU Chorus will then join Tiger Band in its second selection, "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor." The words to the song are the same poignant words of Emma Lazarus that are inscribed on the Statue of Liberty. The music was written by Irving Berlin, the famous composer who immigrated to the United States from Temun, Russia, in 1893. "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor" was arranged for Tiger Band by Eddie Madden.

"Fanfare For Common Man," written by Aaron Copeland during World War II, will be played next. This song was arranged by Frank Harris for the Games of the XXIII Olympiad in 1984. The halftime feature concludes with an ensemble of voice and instrument as the chorus joins Tiger Band in "God Bless America," written by Irving Berlin.

Tiger fans will then meet the newly-crowned Miss Homecoming. While Tiger Band plays background music, the queen will circle the field on a float constructed by the brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Also featured at today's halftime in our salute to the centennial of the Statue of Liberty will be representatives of the more than 80 nations that have students at Clemson.

The halftime show will conclude with the fourth annual appearance of the Tiger Alumni Band, sponsored by CUTBA. Larry Sloan is the 1986 Alumni Band Chairman, and the 150-piece ensemble is the largest representation ever. The T-shirts worn by the Alumni Band were graciously donated by IPTAY. Tiger Alumni Band joins with Tiger Band to salute Miss Liberty — a true Tiger fan — and all members of the Clemson family with "The Song That Shakes The Southland" — TIGER RAG!

This week's feature notes those Tiger Band members who played for the statue of Liberty All-American Marching Band. Members were nominated by band directors, and then a total of 500 students from all 50 states and 92 colleges and universities were invited to participate. Representing Clemson were Bradley Blank, James H. Goodwin, and Barbara Bye-leick. Blank, a member of the band staff, is a senior math major from Turbeville who plays the trombone, while Goodwin is a senior industrial education major from Camden who also plays the trombone. Bye-leick, a June graduate in math, plays the cymbals and lives in Tarrytown, New York. They weren't alone, though, as Dr. Richard Goodstein was invited to serve as assistant director, in charge of trumpets.

To say the word "tradition" is to conjure up many various meanings in the minds of many various people. Mr. Webster refers to a tradition as something "handed down of customs, practices, doctrines, etc." However, the meaning of tradition goes beyond any dictionary definition for a Tiger fan — for a Tiger fan, tradition is a way of life.

While the Clemson critic refers to the Clemson loyalty as "raving lunatics" or "maniacal fanatics," the Tiger fan knows better. Neither lunatic nor fanatic, Clemson doesn't have supporters or mere alumni, it has family.

Billy Packer, noted CBS Sports analyst, documented the Clemson spirit and tradition at a recent seminar he delivered on the Clemson campus on interview techniques. "I have been around college athletics for a long time and I can honestly say Clemson is the only school in which I have never met a graduate who did not like the school. They all take pride in this institution."

Much Clemson tradition can be traced back to the days of Clemson College — the military school. Walter Cox, past president, recalled the days of the Rats (aka freshmen). Cox said, "The freshmen new-boys would come in and get their heads shaved. Usually, they were assigned to an upperclassman, and they'd also get to run all of their roommate's errands for him."

Cox said that many of our traditions stem from the pranks played by the cadets of Clemson College, adding that the pranks were never played to hurt or embarrass anyone, but rather to alleviate the pressures of the school and to build friendship.

Another source of Clemson tradition comes from that crazy cat himself, the Clemson Tiger.

Among these is the Tiger pushups at each Clemson score. In the fall of 1978, Tiger mascot Zack Mills began doing a pushup for each Clemson point. But, Mills made the plan a little more challenging; instead of doing just the additional push-up for each Clemson score, Mills made them a cumulative effort. As can be imagined, that's no easy task in a wool suit when the Tigers' offense is rolling up the points. Ricky Capps found that out on Halloween Day, 1981, when Clemson was shattering records left and right as the Tigers destroyed Wake Forest, 82-24.

By the time Clemson scored its 76th point, Capps was simply exhausted. The good-natured visiting Demon Deacon came to his aid and performed the 76 pushups for the Tiger. Having caught his wind, Capps was back in action for the final 82 (he did 465 that day), and the Tiger and the Deacon have been especially close friends ever since.

Traditions

Clemson might have more unique traditions than any other school.

Still, other traditions like running down the hill grew out of practicalities. Now the scene of what many have called "the most exciting 25 seconds of college football," the tradition of running down the hill came about when Clemson Memorial Stadium first opened on September 19, 1942. As Coach Frank Howard pointed out, "We had to dress in Fike Fieldhouse, and this was the shortest way to the field."

The act of running down the hill is also incorporated with the rubbing of Howard's Rock. Players rub it to receive mystical powers, according to Frank Howard, who was given the rock from S. C. Jones (Class of '19). It is a remnant from the other Death Valley in California and it is mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill.

Another tradition grown out of practical measures is the famous Clemson tailgate party. Some of the best food anywhere can be found at these affairs which range in size from a quick bite to eat for two people to colossal buffets for more than 50 hungry Tigers. However, as auspicious as tailgate parties are now, they've only really caught on as social events within the past 15 years. Prior to that, picnic lunches were brought to the games since Clemson's intimate size inhibits scores of restaurants. Now, its magic, and Clemson could grow to the size of 100,000, but Tiger fans will still be tailgating.

Few traditions are ever planned; rather, most are serendipities. An example of this is the Clemson Tiger Paw. The Tiger Paw Running Down the Hill ... college football's most celebrated entrance.

Tiger paws have been everywhere since 1970.

was developed in an effort to "upgrade the image of Clemson University" back in the early '70's. President R. C. Edwards contracted Henderson Advertising of Greenville to do that, and one astute executive came up with the idea of using the paw.

A plaster mold of a tiger's paw was taken at the Museum of Natural History in Chicago, and the finished product is that fuzzy little print all Clemsonites know and love. The paw was slow in being accepted, but when it did catch on, it spread like wildfire. The good thing about it is the ease in which one can draw a paw — like on the cheek, et ouala! another tradition was born.

But, the majority of traditions have grown out of spirit. Whether you chant "1-2-3-4-, 1-2-3-4 . . .," shout "Orange! White!," do the wave, or wave at the end of the alma mater, you're taking part in the Clemson tradition of spirit.

Now Clemson fans can roar as loud as a cannon, and perhaps that's where George Bennett came up with the idea of firing the cannon at each Clemson score. Bennett, now Director of Athletics at Furman University, was head cheerleader in his senior year in 1954. That summer, his father, Glyn Bennett, bought and donated a noise cannon for the Clemson games. George Bennett said, "Daddy never attended Clemson, but he loved the school and wanted to do something for it. So, he bought the cannon and donated it to the school."

Bennett added that he had trouble moving it around at first since it was so awkward, but he used his Clemson ingenuity and took it over to the P-Plant with a hand truck. There the cannon was fitted and welded to the truck. It's been a part of Clemson football ever since.

Finally, what may be the favorite of all Clemson traditions is no longer observed. Still, fond memories linger of Gator Farr and the Burial of the Gamecock. From the stories that are told, it must have been something to see.

Farr was a member of the Clemson Class of 1930 and later went on to a career in the U. S. Army, where he rose to the rank of colonel. After his military days were through, he came back to Clemson. He held the first Burial in 1951 on the Tuesday before the Big Thursday game. Although great fun for students and players alike, the Tigers lost that game to Carolina, and the Burial ceremony was in jeopardy. Bennett recalls: "After that first Burial when we lost, Coach Howard was a superstitious sort, and he didn't want anymore hoopla.

"We didn't have a Burial in '52 or '53 and we still lost, so I went to Coach Howard and asked him to let us have the burial again. He finally agreed, and we invited Gator back."

Farr was delighted to come back, and he sent Bennett a telegram the next day that read: "I will be there to bury the Gamecock deeper than ever before."

The actual ceremony was a sight. A wake, complete with honor guard, was held throughout Monday and Tuesday before the eulogy on Tuesday night. A funeral dirge would be played as the casket was wheeled to the amphitheatre, and then the "Reverend Gator" would take over.

Complete with a black derby and tails, Farr would ascend the amphitheatre with a Sears catalogue for a prayer book. As

Bob Bradley, Clemson Sports Information Director, pointed out, "Farr would start with the ladies' garment section and he would use some reference for his eulogy in prose." The orations changed each year, and Bennett recalled one passage directed to rubber chicken in hand:

"Ashes to Ashes,
Dirt to Dirt,
So good-bye to you,
You little squirt!"

At that point the crowd of over 5,000 people roared with cheers, and the people were ready to battle the Gamecocks.

So, one can see that tradition is taken very seriously at Clemson. Tradition is more than the fun, it's the ideal, and it binds all Clemson people into a family. So put on your Tigertail and your orange shoes. Revel to Tiger Rag and eat that tailgate fried chicken. No one is sure what the next tradition will be, but everyone is sure that as long as it's good for the Tigers, it will be a welcome addition to the family.

465 pushups in one game!

The Last Word

— by Bob Bradley

Last week Wallace Wade died up in Durham at the age of 94. He hadn't coached football since 1950, but when he was active, Wade was a strong force in the development of Alabama and Duke as national football powers.

Three years ago last April Jess Neely died at the age of 85 in Weslaco, Texas. He hadn't coached football since 1967, but he played a big part in Clemson and Rice becoming known in national football circles.

Neely was an assistant on Wade's staff at Alabama and Frank Howard was a star guard on the Tide's 1931 Rose Bowl team, which defeated Washington State, 24-0. After reaching that zenith, Wade became head coach at Duke, Neely came to Clemson and brought Howard along as his line coach.

It was only natural that the two head coaches would get a series going between their schools and this they did during the seasons of 1934-35-36.

The record doesn't show that the two schools met the following three years. But they did, not in a real, honest-to-goodness 60-minute game, but in a controlled-type springtime scrimmage (which the NCAA now prohibits) that saw Wade and Neely walking the sidelines together most of the time.

As in the three regular season games, Duke won all three of the scrimmages in 1937-38-39, but those who saw the action say nothing was lacking in excitement, especially the last two, when the scores were 30-24 in '38 and 26-20 in '39.

George McAfee and Banks McFadden, both of whom became All-Americans at their respective schools, provided most of the firepower. McAfee had scored four of Duke's five touchdowns in 1938, and came back to score three of the four in '39.

Duke had one of its greatest seasons in 1938, going through the season undefeated, untied and unscored upon until Southern Cal tallied in the last minute of the Rose Bowl for a 7-3 win.

After the '39 scrimmage, Clemson followed with an 8-1 regular season and a 6-3 triumph over Boston College in the 1940 Cotton Bowl. Neely departed for Rice soon after this.

Newspaper accounts of the 1939 scrimmage said: "Banks McFadden, the lanky all-around athletic star of Clemson who recently led the Tiger basketball team to the Southern Conference crown was his team's big noise. He cut loose on several fine runs and kept the Blue Devils in hot water throughout the game with a running forward pass that was amazingly accurate. His punting — he got one off that carried 55 yards from the line of scrimmage against the wind — was also brilliant."

The late Carter "Scoop" Latimer, writing in The Greenville News, observed: "Despite the fact that he had been out for football practice only a week, and then at the end of Clemson's championship basketball conquest, the towering Banks McFadden proved how quickly and smoothly he adjusts himself to any sport ... Associated Press dispatches told the world how he shared role with George McAfee of Duke in the evenly played and spectacular game."

Latimer further wrote: "Clemson, which has risen to heights to be a standout with Duke in Southern Conference competition, lost a tough decision in the annual spring football game between these two 'friendly enemies.' With only 13 seconds playing time left, Coach Wallace Wade's Blue Devils scored the winning touchdown to nose out the Tigers. Such a practice game between teams of different institutions, as evenly matched as Clemson and Duke were generally regarded the past two years, is an advantageous way to spice the vernal drills. The competition is naturally keener than if the Tigers or the Blue Devils played their own respective brethren. ... There's a tendency to 'pull punches' in the intra-squad games of any school, and for this reason the coach and observers often fail to get a good picture of the situation.

"But when separate and distinct schools clash on the gridiron, even in the springtime, with no championship at stake, the boys are more apt to give all they've got, fight to the last ditch, and the coaches get a better slant on the prospects. ... These annual skirmishes no doubt have been beneficial to both Duke and Clemson."

With his immediate switch from basketball to football, McFadden was proving what he was later voted — the nation's most versatile athlete.

Jake Wade, sports editor of the Charlotte News, quoted Coach Wade as saying: "I wouldn't be surprised if McFadden isn't the best back in the Southern Conference. He can kick and run, and is good on defense, especially pass defense. That about covers it, I guess."

By the time spring of 1940 had rolled around, Neely was at Rice and there was not another spring football game between Duke and Clemson. And there hasn't been another one since.

But what would be wrong with schools being allowed to have one or two scrimmages during the spring drills against another team? How many times have coaches and players said near the end of fall practice: "I'm about ready to hit someone wearing a different color." That also holds true in the spring.

How many do you think would show up for a Clemson-South Carolina scrimmage in April? Charge admission, split the profit, or contribute it to some worthy cause on behalf of the two institutions.

That might make too much sense. But sometimes brainstorm don't come from a genius.

Banks McFadden had one of his best days in a game that didn't count when Clemson played Duke in 1939.
